Indiana Legal Help

Over the last three months, Indiana Legal Help has launched seven guided interviews on indianalegalhelp.org. The term guided interview refers to an interface that presents questions to a customer and then uses the answers to those questions to complete an underlying document or set of documents. Guided interviews are tools that help legal assistance organizations serve clients more efficiently and help self-represented litigants more easily, completely, and accurately complete court forms.

These newly available guided interviews, focused in the area of parenting time and custody, are referred to on the website as Form Helper. Each Form Helper is accompanied by a short, animated video that explains that a customer can choose to fill out a form packet online and then print the packet, print a form packet, and then complete it by hand or use the Form Helper to complete the forms. If the Form Helper is used, forms can be printed or emailed to the customer. Learn more here.
